September Competition Table

September Demonstration ~ Christmas Bells with Mark Teeboon

Mark's demonstration prepared us for the Christmas season with a decorative bell that could be used on a wreath, on a Christmas tree or a mantle piece display as a Christmas decoration. Mark first shaped the outside of the bell and then measured the depth that he wanted to hollow out the bell. He transferred this measurement to a drill bit and drilled a gauge hole to the desired depth. He then used a carbide swan neck hollowing tool to core out the interior of the bell following the shape of the outside of the bell so as to achieve constant wall thickness. He turned a "clapper" for the inside of the bell. The length of the clapper should be slightly longer than the hollow in the bell so that it can be seen protruding from underneath the bell. He then drilled a hole through the crown of the bell and a second hole from inside the bell up into the crown to intersect with the first hole. These holes can be used to both suspend the bell and attach the clapper. A hole is drilled in the clapper arm and twine or string can be feed into the hole in the bell crown and down into the bell. A loop in the string can be pulled into the bell using a crochet hook and the clapper can be attached to the string.

1 crown, 2 head
3 shoulder, 4 waist,
5 bead lines,
6 sound bow, 7 lip
8 mouth, 9 clapper

Spin Around Waitaki with Peter Clemett

The annual trek down to Oamaru for this great weekend of woodturning is almost upon us – only a few more sleeps! This is a regular event on my calendar and one I'd thoroughly recommend to anyone who wants to broaden their exposure to new ideas, regardless of skill level.

Normally I attend as a regular participant, but after the pandemic disrupted travel plans for the scheduled demonstrator I was invited to organise and tutor the weekend programme instead.

I'm really looking forward to sharing the projects I have selected and seeing what emerges once people's creativity is engaged and the ideas start flowing. With a bit of luck one of those attending from our Club may write a review for the next Splinters and let you know what really happened and how it all went down.

For those who are going – just a reminder to bring a few items of your work for the Show Table. If anyone has a piece you think is worthy to represent our Club in the interclub (Founder's Trophy) competition then please bring it to this month's Club Meeting.

You can email Peter with any questions about this event at:
